Steamship Company Gives Out Figures On Terrible Loss of Life in St. Lawrence River Disaster.

RECOVERED 300 BODIES

Survivors Are Cared For At Rimouski and Sent On To Quebec and Montreal, While Remains of Victims Are Gathered in Improvised Morgues On River Shores--Dense Fog is Blamed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Quebec, May 30.—More than one thousand persons lost their lives when the Canadian-Pacific steamer Empress of Ireland sank in the St. Lawrence river early Friday morning after the liner had been rammed by the Danish collier Storstad.

These figures, compiled by the Canadian-Pacific Railroad company and made public today, indicated that 1,032 persons in all perished.

Their list is as follows:
First-class passengers saved, 18; second and third class passengers, 131; crew saved, 206; total saved, 355.

The number of passengers carried by the Empress of Ireland: First-class, 87; second-class, 433; third-class, 715; crew, 432; total, 1,357.

Recovered 300 Bodies.

With the survivors and the bodies of the victims were given every possible care, attention was turned today to Rimouski, where efforts to recover the bodies of the victims were in progress.

Up to an early hour today more than three hundred bodies had been landed there.

The dead were piled on the piers, making it possible to closely scrutinize the bodies for the purpose of identification. Few have so far been recognized. There appears to be many foreigners among the dead, judging from passports found on the bodies.

Women and children are plentifully represented in the grim pile. Among them was one mother with her child pressed closely to her breast.

Those who witnessed the scene at Rimouski, where the bodies were laid out on the pier, say that the sight was heart-rending. Many of the dead were stored with wide open eyes toward heaven, some with horror, and others with the air of puzzled surprise.

There was little attempt to cover the corpses and for the most part they lay practically as they had been taken out of the water. Some were half-dressed and others nearly naked.

Search for Bodies.

Of the thousands of more who met their death yesterday with the sinking of the liner Empress of Ireland, the bodies of more than three hundred have been recovered today. Search was being conducted in the St. Lawrence for the others and three hundred and thirty-five were either at or en route to their homes, garbed in garments supplied by the residents of Rimouski.

Early today the bulk of the dead were placed on the government vessel, Lady Evelyn, at Rimouski, to be brought to this city, pending identification. Captain Kendall of the Empress of Ireland, still suffering from his injuries, remained at the little wharf from the horror of which at low tide he could see the funnels of the stricken ship leaning above the surface.

Captain Blames Fog.

The collier Storstad, which tipped open the side of the Empress, arrived at Quebec early this morning.

Captain Anderson, who refused to give out extended statements, said the collision had been due solely to the denseness with which the fog shut down upon the vessel. He added that after the crash he picked up more than three hundred persons, in fact most of those who were saved, later transferred to the Lady Evelyn and the Enrek. The collier had in her bow about the water line a hole large enough to admit three men erect. Her fourth anchor was missing, having been dragged by the Empress and sunk.

Take Dead to Quebec.

The tender, Lady Green, has been designated as a funeral ship, and is expected to reach Quebec late today with the bodies of the dead so far recognized. An army of carpenters and undertakers who worked all last night are still busy converting the large eight-story collier into a temporary morgue, for the rescued bodies.

The collier Storstad, which rammed the ill-fated Empress of Ireland, arrived here shortly after one o'clock this morning, accompanied by the wrecking steamer, Strathcona, and anchored in midstream. A press boat went out but newspaper men were refused permission to board. It was learned, however, that she had saved many of the Empress of Ireland's passengers.

The Storstad is badly damaged, having a hole some fifteen feet square in her bow.

The Storstad left for Montreal with the wrecking steamer, Strathcona, shortly after five o'clock, presumably after receiving orders to that effect. She is making slow progress owing to the damaged condition of her bow.

From the accounts it seemed that soon after the ship was rammed she slanted until her deck stood at right angles to the water. Slowly she righted herself in the water and only was it possible to launch five boats in the brief interval before she sank.

Kendall Washed Off Bridge.

Captain Kendall was on the bridge when the collision occurred. When the steamer sank, he was washed away, later to be picked up by one of the boats, apparently to his great regret. Thus far he has offered no public statement except to say that he would have preferred to have gone down with his ship. Passengers who observed him during the frightful few minutes after the ship was struck, talked in his praise and declared he did his full duty.

Chief Steward Killed.

Chief Steward, it is stated, was killed by a boat falling on him while working to help passengers escape.

Lawrence Irving, author and actor, and son of Sir Henry Irving, according to survivors, died while trying to save his wife, Mrs. Irving, who was last seen on deck embracing each other as if in farewell. They went down with the ship wrapped in each other's arms.

Commiseration Rees of the Salvation Army stood on the deck of the doomed vessel, trying to persuade the people to keep cool, and lending a helping hand to many. He sank with the words: "Oh, God! They will be done."

One of the touching sights on the train was that presented by Philip Lawler. With his wife and son he had left home in Bradford, Ontario, where they had lived for the last seven years, to visit their old home at Keighly, Yorkshire, England. The mother went down with the ship, while the father, after a desperate struggle, managed to save his son, Herbert, and himself. He was injured when the explosion occurred. With head swathed in bandages, he sat a disconsolate figure, at his son's side. The boy is about seventeen years of age.

Only twenty-two women and two children of the many who left Montreal and Quebec, appeared to be saved.

One little girl, Helen O'Hara, swam until she was picked up, as also did Miss Thompson from New Zealand. One woman, Mrs. Greenaway, a bride of a week, was separated from her husband and thought she had lost him, but she too had a happy reunion later at Rimouski.

Probably the chief cause of the struggle after the impact, was the fact that the water rushing into the engine room and flooding the dynamos, left the ship in darkness.

One of the first steps taken at Rimouski was the establishment of a regular beach patrol to prevent looting by beach-combers. There were still seven hundred bodies to be rescued from the waters of the St. Lawrence.

With the Empress, it became known today, when it went down, was $1,000,000 in silver bars, shipped from Cobalt to England. It is an opinion in shipping circles that the Empress will have to be raised or dynamited for fear that her presence will cause the furnishing of a sand bar.

Identify Bodies.

Among those whose identification was thought to be correct was Mrs. Gallagher of Winnipeg. There was a Gallager in the first cabin.

Another body was thought to be that of Albert Anderson, a first cabin passenger of Montreal or London.

There is among the dead the body of a well-dressed woman whose fingers are diamonds. Beside her lay the body of one of the Empress' stewards. Many of the bodies are cut and bruised so that they can not be identified.

Kendall Crushed.

Some wore life belts when picked up and of these many of them died with their arms extended above their heads. The mother mentioned before who held the body of her dead child to her breast, wore a gold chain bearing a gold cross.

Survivors arriving here and at Montreal all agree on the outstanding points of the disaster. It was so quick that there was not time for concerted action. Hundreds of women it is said, might have been saved had they not stopped to dress.

Captain Kendall, still crushed by what has occurred, was a little better this morning. He is still suffering from injuries sustained, but has not contracted pneumonia as reported. To friends with whom he talked he lamented the failure of the collier Storstad to hold her bow in the torn side of the Empress of Ireland, which it had opened with its sharp blow.

It appears that it was misty, not foggy, when the crash occurred. The Empress had passed Rimouski at 1:30 and was on her course. Captain Kendall was on the bridge and ordered the ship to slow down as he made out the lights of the approaching vessel. He whistled and indicated his course and received an answer that his signals were understood. The two vessels were not far apart when the signs were exchanged and came nearer together. The Empress' engines came to a full stop under orders and the vessel was merely moving forward under its own momentum when the crash came. The order was given for slow astern and just as the order was executed the Storstad crashed into the side. One theory is that the collier tried to cross the bows of the Empress and in so doing her nose missed the bow and crashed into the Empress' midships.

Arrive at Montreal.

Montreal, May 30.—Exhausted survivors of the Empress of Ireland disaster, wearing misfit clothing supplied by the people of Rimouski, arrived in Montreal today. In the party was a remnant of the Salvation Army band, one hundred of whom perished.

SURVIVOR DESCRIBES— SHIPWRECK HORROR; PASSENGERS ASLEEP

Men, Women and Children Go To Watery Grave While Lying Asleep in Berths.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Father Point, Quebec, May 30.—Brief wireless dispatches were sent from the Storstad which gave thrilling and graphic details of the disaster in the St. Lawrence on Friday. From the quickness of the time in which the Empress of Ireland sank after the collision, some of the passengers were caught in their berths and drowned. Others, in their night clothing, rushed to the rail and flung themselves into the water without waiting to put on life preservers.

Both men and women were picked up with children clamped in their arms. There was little opportunity for officers of the ill-fated steamer to put into effect the rules of the sea. "Women and children first." The disaster came so quickly and was so overwhelming that it was a case of every person for himself. In the darkness the victims went down to their death.

One of the survivors on the damaged ship gave a brief and graphic description of what happened.

Story By Survivor.

He said: "I was asleep in my berth when I was suddenly rolled to the floor by the pitch of the ship. As soon as I awakened I heard the sickening crash of steel and timber rending our ship. I realized at once that we had been rammed by another ship. I rushed from my stateroom, and even in the darkness, I marked the quietness of the ship. In a few minutes stateroom doors were filled with pale faces and men and women were engaged in a wild scramble to get to the lifeboats off."

"Officers partly dressed were running about the decks urging the passengers to be calm. Others were running to the boat decks to get the lifeboats off."

"It was dark as pitch, and this blackness was intensified by the fact that the water soon got into the engine room and stopped the dynamos. From all parts of the deck arose cries, men and women passengers calling to their relatives and officers of the ship shouting orders. The sea was not running high and yet the lash of the water as it rose higher and higher, until the hull made a sound that was terrifying."

Passengers Pray On Decks.

"Through the fog we could mistily make out the figure of the ship which had run us down. She was limping badly and we did not know whether she was going to the bottom or not. This feeling of uncertainty, and the likelihood that our neighbor might be sinking with all on board aroused us to a still higher tension of excitement."

"Both men and women dropped to their knees upon the decks and prayed for deliverance. Some buried their faces in their hands and sobbed with a frenzy born of despair and in the presence of death."

HOLDS UP PAYMENT OF TAXES ON LAND IN FOREST RESERVE

Secretary of State Refuses to Pay Taxes on State Land in Northern Counties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., May 30.—Because of the uncertainties raised in the suit over the constitutionality of the state law to maintain a state forestry reserve, Secretary of State John S. Donald has declined to pay the taxes on the state land within the reserve. The Stevens' bill enacted at the last session of the legislature directed the state tax commission to value the state forestry lands within the counties of Forest, Iron, Oneida, Price and Vilas, and the state was to pay a tax on these lands for local and county purposes. The valuation was fixed last November by the commission at $1,270,131 and the total tax to be paid by the state to the localities in the above counties was fixed at $15,876.60.

Although the amount of this tax was due after Dec. 1, last year, and under the law was to have been paid the same as all other taxes before March 15, the secretary of state has declined to make the payments on the grounds that if the court decided that the state did not have the right to buy these lands, it had no title and having no title it could not be compelled to pay the tax. Secretary Donald has declined the requests for payments by the local county treasurers on this ground.

A few days ago one of the county treasurers notified the secretary of state that unless these taxes were paid the state lands would be advertised and sold for taxes. Secretary Donald immediately notified the county treasurers that it would be best to "go slow" as the title of lands sold by that method when the matter was still being litigated in the courts, might be invalidated. All of the county treasurers to whom this state money was due have made a demand upon the state for the amounts due, might be invalidated.

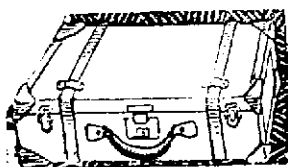

Forest, Iron, Oneida, Price and Vilas at $1,270,131, fixing the amount of state taxes due on state lands in Forest county at $4,015.10; Iron county, $1,858.51; Oneida county, $3,558.33; Price county, $4,009.63 and Vilas county, $6,041.10. Play Best Exercise.
The best kind of exercise is the kind that makes you forget that you are exercising—in other words play, says a physician. It's a good scheme to have some more or less strenuous

ACTIVITY OF WEEK IN POLITICAL LINE

LA FOLLETTE MEN RALLY TO HATTON'S STANDARD IN GUB-ERNATORIAL RACE.

IN DEMOCRATIC CAMP

Judge Karel's Announcement of His Candidates Forebodes Period of Bitter Domestic Strife.

By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 30.—The meeting of the Wisconsin Press Association here this week, which was attended by two Republican candidates for governor—Merlin Hull of Black River Falls and H. E. Roethlis-berger of Grant County—served to attract attention from those seeking political information. The week also developed a new phase in the public announcement that the La Follette element will support W. H. Hatton for the gubernatorial nomination. This looks very much like a forced move
on the part of the La Follette men,
if they have, as it appears, crawled under the McGovern wagon. It is because they discovered that other people have known for some time that there is no La Follette machine left that anybody is afraid of. Roethlisberger and W. B. Utman of Hudson, the Secretary of La Follette candidates, each represents hitherto dependable La Follette territory, and yet the La Follette men are evidently afraid of all of them.

Democratic Confusion.
Judge Karel's formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination had been expected, and it forebodes internecine troubles in the Democratic camp. Even the so-called "stalwart" movement has seemed to develop a division in the ranks of the conservatives.

The sum of the situation at present, as I am able to analyze it by interviewing the newspaper men who are trying to understand it, and others whom I meet from about the state, is one of beautiful and complete confusion. Everything is tending toward the demonstration that the Mc-Govern machine is the only one to be found in Wisconsin. If it does not go down the middle of the road to success, it will be because it makes some mistake. It certainly has the stroke out at present. If Mr. McGovern wants to dictate the Republican nominee for governor, as things stand today he can do it, and that he will do it seems likely. In the interest of his own candidacy for the United States senate. This opinion is predicted upon his own theory that a compact minority is invincible where everything else is confusion.

Business for Karel.

The Erie railroad has demonstrated its value to Wisconsin because, is one of its officials said to me the other day: "When we first opened our Milwaukee office we had to get business with a graphic hook. Now we have a line of customers. That was the people of this city and of the state are finding out that they get good service and are in the hands of their friends when their freight travel is done by the Erie either by "freight rail" or "all rail." So far this season's business from this field shows an increase over last spring. That is as I said at the outset, a demonstration of the Erie's usefulness in Wisconsin. I understand that a large part of the outgoing business just now is manufactures. The "Made in Wisconsin" label ought to be on all of them. Wisconsin shippers will find the Erie ready to help spread their fame abroad.

Example of Taxation.

The recently announced assessment of street and interurban railways and of light, heat and traction companies in Wisconsin is worthy of attention
as an illustration of the growth of centralization in the state treasury of the incomes of taxation. In 1908 the first assessment of such properties
took place under the present law.
They had previously paid small license fees to the state and had been assessed locally with other property. In 1908 there were twenty-four properties assessed, at an aggregate of $33,932,000. The total taxes levied amounted to $350,637.75. Of this the state treasury got $58,595.63, and the cities, villages and cities where the properties are located the rest. The assessment announced this week is on twenty-eight properties. It aggregates $58,390,000 valuation. The tax aggregates $1,016,788, of which the state gets $215,515.73, an increase of 197 per cent in six years. This tax comes out of the people as surely as any other. In his message of 1903, Governor La Follette, speaking of steam railroad rates, and it applies
here as well, says:

"Railroad transportation is a tax
upon the commerce of the country.
It is a tax from which no one can escape."

The street railways collect the money in fares that they pay in taxes.
Their growing taxes are therefore an element of the average man's growing expenses.

Recent comments by laymen and lay newspapers on the breadth and open-mindedness of recently published religious books, such as Henry Sloan Coffin's "University Sermons" (Yale University Press) had a significant emphasis last Monday, in the institution of the Rev. R. M. Shipperd as pastor of Plymouth church of this city. The participants in the services included not only the conventional evangelical church representation, but the Unitarian minister and a Jewish rabbi were in attendance, and were heard. The spirit of brotherhood beyond mere sectarianism was notable and significant of a warmer religious fellowship.

British Win Honors.

British-American athletic contests are ever increasing. From yacht racing, horse racing and polo down through track meets, rowing, boxing, golf and tennis, the two countries compete. American supremacy, as it has been fondly (and foolishly) called,
has been receiving some hard blows
of late. Stamford L.V. the new cup challenger, is said to be sure of defeating the American defender.
Yachtsmen on this side the water,
however, remember similar statements concerning Shamrock I, II and III. All honor to Sir Thomas, but let's have the race in the water and have it out, first. American golfers were sure to win the British Amateur tournament. "Vee" Jenkins, however, carried the title back to bonny Scotland with him. And although Harvard, recently beaten by Cornell, sends her second crew to compete at the British Henley, we are compelled to have an ever increasing respect for British powers in the world of sport.
It is a fact worthy of the attention of all Wisconsin that Milwaukee continues to hold her place as the largest steaming coal port of the great lakes.
She has a greater number of plants for handling coal than any other port. To receive over five millions tons of coal during the season of navigation means much for the railroads radiating from here, as well as for our lake precedence, for it makes Milwaukee a great distributing center. It should not be overlooked, however, that one great factor in the lake receipts is the great and growing manufacturing business of this place, which now ranks as the eighth manufacturing city of the union.

Reports on Scenery.

The growth of crop prospects is certainly encouraging, but as the Wall Street Journal humorously suggests, it is to be hoped that the reports are not "on scenery rather than on probable threshing results." So many of our prognostications are "on scenery,"
often on the scenery of imagination
alone, that it is well not to "get gay"
over them. The entire world seems to be going it slow in a business way.
We are not alone in this country, and it is neither tariff reduction, nor high taxes, that can alone be remedied
alone, that it is well not to "get gay"
over them. The entire world seems

DO YOU REMEMBER —?

(P. J. K.)
The sun was not yet three hours high. The dew of early morn lay over all, coupled with that happy hush, that gleaminess of air that no one but the early traveler knows.

A woman with a basket of flowers upon her arm, walked slowly up the road. She was frail, wan, old. Over her shoulders, that she pitifully tried to hold erect, was a faded shawl. A faded bonnet rested on her silver hair.
She climbed the hill road that led to the cemetery—the holy ground that held the body of her husband. With eyes that saw not, the basket still upon her arm, she looked long at the dim-worn stone.

Died, July 3rd, 1863. Thomas
Lynch. Aged 28. R. P. Fifty winters snow had fallen, heaped, melted over this mound. Fifty summers suns had shone down upon it.
She thought of the first Decoration
Day she had visited her young husband's grave. By her side had stood her sturdy little son—the child his father knew so well, yet had never seen. He was in the south, in the thickest of the fray, when the letter
came to him, telling him of the death of his father. He had been under when he, with the sound of the bugle in his ears, had kissed her tear-stained eyes
and said good-bye.

That son stood high in the ranks of his country's successful men today.
He was his father's son! She thanked God for that.

With shaking hands she laid the flowers on the grave. A faint breeze blew up from the lowlands and stirred the folds of the flag that stood guard over the grave of the man who fought and died for her. Suddenly she saw him. She was not young any more. She had not thought last Decoration Day that she would be here today. She was very tired.
Familiarity had over his grave marched the years that had passed since she had lost him. A blinding rush of tears flooded her eyes,
coarsened down the withered cheeks,
mingled with the dust that long ago
had been all that remained of her husband. Dashing, sunny-haired, laughing-eyed, he seemed to stand before her. He whose image she had carried in her heart undimmed through the long years. The years she had spent with him trooped passed—happy, carefree days at first. How he had stood between the world and she!
She saw again the brave, blond gathering, saw him, as he stood before her in the morn of his departure; heard him say: "Your God comes first," your country next, and then—at last like the prayers for his safety that she had said, doubted by the hopes, the plans, for when the war was over, for him, his son, and her. She put her face down on the cool and sobbed. A queer pain was racking her heart.

"Tom.....oh! Tom.....the way has been so long.....so long, and lonely without you."

Up the hill, across the silent city
of the dead, came the old soldiers, the women and the children who were decorating the graves of the men who died the bravest death, a man can die on duty with their faces to the foe.

The little old lady tried to rise.
The pain in her heart was tearing her.
"Tom," she tried to murmur, and then again "Into Thy hands, O Lord,
I commend my spirit."
The flag's folds rose and fell over the graves of two departed soldiers—
where shortly it had fluttered over one.

POLITICAL SNIPERS TAKING POSITIONS

GUERRILLA WARFARE WILL BE IN ORDER VERY SHORTLY.

ISSUES ARE UNCERTAIN

But Few Platforms Have Been Formulated—Owen Drops Out of the Race in Favor of Hatton.

(By Bob Acres.)

(N. B.—This is one of a series of political articles written exclusively for the Gazette.)

There has been very little political change in the past week that has any particular bearing upon the situation.
The "political snipers" are taking their positions on the rooftops to pick off the approaching enemy, but this is but an incident. One expects that anyway. Walter Owen's decision not to make the race for the government has come as a relief to a lot of faithful La Folletteites who can now turn their attention to Hatton and avert if possible Merlin Hull or Roethlisberger from becoming dangerous.

Stor for a moment and review the situation. Here are the La Follette and McGovern republicans, bitter personal enemies, but forming an alliance to battle with their hereditary enemies, the Stalwarts. The La Fol-letteites are taking the Stalwarts contingent on from Washington to personally conduct the campaign to eliminate McGovern while the governor sits back in his intransigence and with his "snipers" on the top of the capital waiting for a shot.

Then there is Roethlisberger—"No Man's Man"—stamping his way into the hearts of the common people by his plain talk and his method of campaigning. Then there is Merlin Hull, rose less to be in the thick of the fray, but seeking some support from one or the other republican faction. Hatton, cool and collected, the choice of the La Fol-letteites and probably of the McGovernites, with his lightning rod high in the air waiting for the political thunder storm.

Now come the stalwarts, headed by John M. Whitehead of Janesville as chief. Then comes Philip H. Scott as advisor; Bentley, ex-internal revenue collector, and Jim Monahan of Darlington, who held the same job as long as he could, in the front ranks. Former governors Hiram and Scofield ready to aid with counsel and encouragement. With calls issued for county conventions to name delegates to a state convention in Madison the latter part of June. Not formidable yet, but a feature in the campaign.

If they should decide on Merlin Hull
as their choice would it not?
Now come the Roosevelt republicans, the ultra progressives led by Henry Cochems, the young man with the football reputation and the former La Follette lieutenant who deserted his chief on the battle line to join his enemy's forces at the last national convention. Henry is an ambitious young fellow. He had reason for his desertion. When he ran for congress against Victor Berger, the socialist,
La Follette did not help him and so Henry paid back that score. What they will do is a question. They may join issues with McGovern and his campaign and perhaps tacitly aid La Follette as far as it suits their conveniences, but generally speaking their position is on the roofs with the "snipers."

Now you come to the democrats.
Here is another break. The Davies-Aylward combination is still strong entrenched. They have the federal pa-tronnage and they are using it. They

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 11—The Weekly Saving Plan

"The Principal of thrift is the foundation of character."—John A.
Dix.

A movement has been started to get people to promise themselves to save and deposit something in the bank every week.

The pledge or covenant they make with themselves is as follows:

I WILL become a "WEEKLY SAVER," and will deposit $_____ every week for at least 52 weeks to my credit in a savings account at the Bank.

Signed _____

This seems like a very good idea. The object of the plan is threefold.

1. To demonstrate to depositors that in a year they can make 52 regular weekly deposits of at least a certain sum—no matter how small.
2. To show them that by adhering to their resolution for 52 weeks they form a habit, through which it will be easier for them to keep on saving than to stop.
3. To acquire a cash capital with which to grasp opportunity, realize an ambition or to be ready for sudden and unusual necessity.

The advantages of such a method of building up a reserve fund are brought out, by implication, in these words of a banker in the Lompoc Valley of California who says:

"The past two years, particularly the last one, have been what we call 'short' years in this valley. The rainfall was below the average and consequently the crops were short. For several years previous to 1912, our crops were exceptionally good, and everyone seemed to feel that he was making money and that this condition would continue indefinitely. Instead of paying off their mortgages and other indebtedness, a great many added to their land holdings, bought automobiles, etc. So, when the short years came they were unprepared."

A systematic method of saving is of benefit not only to farmers, wage-earners and salaried persons, but business men would do well to consider it seriously as a plan to build up reserve capital.

Those who have "arrived" are as likely to need an emergency or opportunity fund as are their employees.

Any business man, personally, may have need of a little extra private capital some day, available in cash, out-side of his business, unknown to others and ready for any call.

Build a personal reserve. Have a business reserve, too. Don't argue that you can use your money to better advantage in your business. A reserve may be your financial salvation some day.

Don't say you will save weekly, after you have "caught up" in expenses, for saving week by week is the best way in the world to catch up.

You will never earn enough money to spend all you want to before you begin to save anything.

DECORATE GRAVES OF DEPARTED COMRADES

VETERANS OF TWO WARS HONOR THEIR DEAD LYING IN LOCAL CEMETERIES.

SALUTES ARE FIRED

Ceremonies Conducted at Grand Army and Spanish War Veterans Lots

This Morning

Veterans of the Civil and Spanish wars, members of the Grand Army and W. R. C. posts and of the United Spanish War Veterans' camp today united in the observance of Memorial day and decorated the graves of departed comrades in the local cemeteries.

At the cemeteries there were between 30 and 35 graves decked with flowers and greens which were prepared for distribution yesterday by the ladies of the auxiliary orders. The work at the cemeteries was in charge of the following officers and guides:

Commander: L. M. Nelson. Guides: First division: W. W. Willis and B. F. Cummings; second division: H. Bliss and David Lawrence; third division: R. Bessie and A. M. Glenn; fourth division: C. N. Riker and Frank Smith; fifth division: J. L. Trumble and Walter Briggs; Mt. Zion: J. B. T. Winslow; town of Janesville: Michael Raby; town of Center: Laban Fisher; Atton: Joseph Williams and Joseph Raby.

Exercises at the Grand Army lots on both Oak Hill and Mt. Olivet cemeteries were conducted by the members of the Grand Army, the services being read by Chaplain C. S. Burham and assisted by Commander L. M. Nelson.

The firing squad of the Spanish war veterans fired the salutes and taps were sounded by the buglers. Similar ceremonies were conducted at the Spanish War Veterans' lot with the officers of the camp in charge.

Seldom have the Janesville cemeteries appeared more beautiful than they did today. Endowed by nature with great natural beauty the burial lots which cover the quiet spot had been carefully and beautifully prepared and decorated in honor of the dead.

There were many visitors at the cemeteries throughout the day.

SENDS TO GERMANY TO GET HIS BRIDE

Henry Fahlbusch, After Two Years in United States, Sends to Native Land For His Fiance.

Henry Fahlbusch and Miss Emma Schmidt were united in marriage at seven-thirty o'clock this morning by the Rev. Father W. A. Goebel at St. Mary's church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Striever.

Mr. Fahlbusch's bride arrived in New York City from Germany a few days ago, and was met by her future husband, who exhibited his marriage license, and after some questioning of the immigration authorities, Miss Schmidt was admitted to this country.

Together they came on to Janesville, arriving yesterday afternoon.

It has been nearly two years since Fahlbusch left his home in Germany to seek his fortune in the United States. He parted from his fiancée with the promise that he would send her as soon as he prospered sufficiently.

Continuing directly to Janesville, he secured a position in the office of the Parker Pen Company, where he has become a valued and reliable employee. So well has he succeeded across the ocean and he will be on Prospect avenue in this city.

Mr. Parker, during his recent tour of Europe, was entertained at the home of Fahlbusch's parents.

THERE'S SOMETHING FOR YOU at our big formal opening on Monday. Gifts, prizes and special offers. McCue & Buss.

CONFEDERATE GRAVES DECKED AT MADISON

Equal Honors Paid to "Boys in Gray" Buried in Forest Hill Cemetery.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 30.—With honors equal to those paid to Union soldiers in the plot adjoining the graves of 139 Confederate soldiers were decorated with flags and flowers by patriotic organizations of Madison at Forest Hill cemetery this morning.

In close proximity to the Union graves where many of Wisconsin's volunteers lie buried, a neat plot devoted to "Boys in Gray," and popularly known as Confederate Rest, is carefully tended by nearly all the southerners there buried were members of the First Alabama infantry, and were sent to Madison in 1862 as prisoners of war.

From long exposure in the air at Island No. 10, near New Madrid, Mo., they took sick and died by the score upon reaching Madison. An appropriate monument marks their resting place.

The memorial day oration here was delivered by Rev. L. F. Besch, Methodist pastor. H. S. Siggeko gave the address for the Sons of Veterans and Dr. T. W. Evans for the Spanish War veterans.

A parade nearly two miles long, headed by nearly all the corps of university cadets, who afterwards disbanded for the year. Flowers were strewn on Lake Monona in memory of the navy's dead. Business houses closed during the day, but many sport events were held despite a remonstrance published by the G. A. R. post.

DAY FOR CONSECRATION NOT DESECRATION, SAYS LOWTH IN HIS SPEECH

GAMES AND BUSINESS OUT OF PLACE ON MEMORIAL DAY, SAYS SPEAKER.

A BETTER CITIZENSHIP

Which Will Honor the Past, Serve in the Present and Prepare for the Future in Country's Great Need.

"This is a day for consecration and not for desecration, and I hope that all of us will come more and more to realize that games and sports are out of place, and that it is but meet that the busy places of market and business of buying and selling, should for a time at least become quiet, and that we should pause in our work and in our play out of respect for these observances which are very dear and sacred to many of our fellow-men."

Emphasis was placed upon this statement by Principal F. J. Lowth of the Rock county teachers' training school in his Memorial Day address this afternoon at Myers Theatre, continuing, Prof. Lowth said:

"My theme today is that the true spirit of the day we observe is the spirit of true patriotism. This true spirit in the first instance emphasizes the memorial phases of the day. It looks back to our reverence and to learn the lesson of the past. This same spirit, true in its patriotic character, gives due place to citizenship and to the citizen of our day. In this second division of our discussion we lay stress, and rightly so, it seems to me, upon the present day and its problems. In the third and the last place, we shall briefly turn our attention to the citizen of tomorrow to discern its perils and possibilities, as well as its underlying principles of progress."

Brilliant War Record.
"Any of us who have the least bit of spirit may well be proud of the record of old Wisconsin and of our Rock county in the dark days of the '90's. Rock county was one of the most patriotic counties in the state. This county's share of men was 2,817. Nearly enough for three regiments. Only two other counties furnished more than Rock county. The city and town of Janesville were asked for 650 men and they furnished 728. I am sure that did the call come again from President Wilson the response would be equally as loyal and patriotic."

Many Attend Services.
There was a large attendance at the Memorial service. Shortly before 2 o'clock the Grand Army men, many of them now old and crippled by the advance of years, but still proud and loyal spirited, came to show their loyalty and patriotism to the country they had so well served in line at their battle. Headed by the Mayor, they marched to the Myers theatre. There was a large delegation of the Wisconsin Relief Corps and the Spanish War Veterans.

The crowds gathered at the theatre early in the afternoon, anxious to see the thrilling motion pictures of war scenes. At 2:30 the doors of the theatre were opened again to receive the late comers.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Frank L. Van Voorhis of the Christian church. General Logan's famous Memorial Day order was read, there was a song by a company of school children; Miss Evelyn Welsh read "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," and then Prof. Lowth gave his address.

After referring to the spirit of Memorial Day and the reverence which should mark its observance, as stated above, Prof. Lowth continued as follows:

Object of Grand Army.
"The order of the Grand Army of the Republic has three objects: First, to keep green the memory and the associations of the Civil war; second, to aid unfortunate comrades; and third, to keep alive the spirit of patriotism."

"We assemble this day under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic and grand auspices they are. We read and we talk of the heroic deeds of Caesar and of Alexander, but the boys of the '90's were asked more territory, fought more battles, than even the hosts of Napoleon. But in their path our armies learn his lesson? In my opinion the continued observance of Memorial Day will ultimately fail upon the schools—teachers, children and school officials—and I believe they will discharge the sacred duty with honor and dignity."

"We, as a nation, cannot afford to forget our famous heritage. The lessons of history must be instilled into the hearts of our rising generation. Once a year and all through the year in our schools let us seek to perpetuate the principles and institutions for which our fathers sacrificed, lest we forget."

Need Good Citizenship.
"Our greatest need today is good citizenship. We do honor to the past and to its heroic dead by doing our civic duty today. We, you and I, have to fight the battles of peace, and they demand a kind of courage which is sometimes found wanting. To be loyal and true to our country's needs, to our city's needs, is, indeed, the noblest way to pay homage to the men who fell on the field of battle. We owe our best manhood and womanhood today in our country's service, and he or she who gives of himself or of herself in the arts of peace is the true citizen, the best patriot, the noblest son or daughter. The Grand Army of today—the Army of Peace—needs men, strong, virile men to fight the country's moral battles. Treason, relatively is abroad in the land—the treason of the corrupt politician, the treason of the faithless voter, the treason of the man of greed, the treason of him who waxes fat on the strength and the lives of the women and innocent children, the treason of him who looks upon public office as a private snare, the treason of selfish self-satisfaction."

"I hold no brief for any man, but if I sought to make a defense and a plea it would be in behalf of the common average man, he who is the bone and sinew of the republic—he who serves his country in time of war and peace; he who goes to his daily task unafraid and without complaining; he who rears his family as best he may; he who stands ready to put his shoulder to the wheel in time of social or of civic need for service. In the average American citizen, embodying these principles and ideals of true democracy, lies our salvation, for when he is tried he will not be found wanting."

Sees Hope in Schools.
"The true spirit of Memorial Day gives need to those fundamental principles of democracy needed tomorrow—making their way in the world with confidence and with happiness. That day has not as yet fully arrived. Our schools will also be increasingly train not only the head and the hand, but likewise the heart. The manual arts and all kinds of trade and mechanical activities will come into their true place for recognition as not only highly honorable, but worthy of the most careful preparation."

"There are dangers accompanying all growth and change. Prosperity has its perils, and we are a prosperous people. Maybe, too, of old time, we are in danger of losing our souls by reason of our riches. I am inclined to think this is true. He who gives all his days and all his energies to the amassing of property, of things, may after all miss the real meaning of life. True citizenship demands vision, unselfishness, valuation of spiritual above material goods, regard for fellow-man, sympathy for the unfortunate, and genuine public spirit. We need a higher regard for the worth of the human soul—a regard which will place man above mere things—a regard which will place a new value upon life—the life of women and of children and of the weaker one, wherever found."

Must Conquer Perils.
"A peril that threatens, and will more greatly threaten tomorrow, is the unrestricted, unassimilated immigrant. We are in danger of having within our midst thousands and millions of people without ideals of good citizenship, and with many wrong notions brought from across the sea."

"However, I believe that this peril and other perils of the new day will be met and the problem solved. I have the utmost faith in the capacity of this great melting-pot of the nation. Our glory of our land has been the high type of naturalized citizenship—thousands fought in the civil war, and thousands have been the finest, noblest type of the soldier of peace."

"And thus today we are one people, though of many races and tongues—one land, one nation and one flag—Old Glory, the Stars and Stripes, the Banner of the Free. Let us as our last thought pay tribute to this flag, this symbol of all we are, of all that we hold dear. As we recall the past with all its meaning, as we give attention to present-day duties of our every-day citizenship, as we turn our eyes to the rising sun of a new day, let us ours and all give three times three cheers for the dear old flag we love so well, and let us renew our allegiance to those ideas and principles for which it stands."

WHEN NOTHING TASTES GOOD TO YOU
You eat simply because you must. You are troubled with dyspepsia. It makes your life miserable. You have a bad taste in your mouth, a tenderness at the pit of your stomach, a feeling of puffy fullness, headache, heartburn, and sometimes nausea. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts on the stomach through the blood and also directly. Its beneficial effects are felt at once. It makes the rich red blood that is needed for perfect digestion.

JANESVILLE GIRL TAKEN BACK TO REFORM SCHOOL

Anna Cochrane, eighteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cochrane, has been taken back to the Milwaukee industrial school from which institution she escaped last winter. Her father, James, is in the county jail at present waiting for his trial on the charge made by Mrs. Cochrane, of assault and intent to do great bodily harm.

When the Cochrane girl escaped it is claimed that she went to Rockford and was married to William Brandt, a Beloit man. Brandt and his young wife also resided in Beloit. The youthful husband was endeavoring to secure the release of his wife from the industrial school with a petition.

NEW DEVICE SAVES MANY PERSONS 'APPARENTLY DEAD FROM DROWNING'

Operating the lung motor.

This new device, called a lung motor, resuscitates persons after asphyxiation by gas, mine fumes or drowning. It pumps air and oxygen of proper proportions into the lungs in natural doses. The apparatus is so delicately constructed that the proper volume of air can be applied to newborn babies or men in the same volume they naturally breathe. It has brought back to life persons who have apparently been dead from drowning for ten minutes.

OBITUARY

Funeral for Mrs. Frank Klaska was held at 9 o'clock this morning at the St. Mary's church. Rev. W. A. Goshel officiating. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery. The pallbearers were: Antonio Bier, Antonio Wolff, Joseph Prox, William Hultash, Patrick Nasti and Frank Miller.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, May 30.—There was no mail delivered from the local office today. The postoffice was open during the day, however.

It looked very much as though there might be a severe storm approaching about seven-thirty on Friday and some of the more timid ones congregated in different parts of the village at the homes of their neighbors, fearing a hurricane, but the storm passed with nothing worse than a steady downpour of rain, which lasted for nearly an hour.

Four auto loads of Odd Fellows went to Beloit on Friday to attend the funeral of their late brother, James Cox, whose sudden death was recorded in the Gazette of Thursday evening.

Dr. E. W. Fairman of Brodhead was in the village for a short time on Friday afternoon.

The graded school gave a Memorial day program on Saturday, including songs, recitations, and a march to the cemetery, where the graves of all soldiers were decorated. An address was delivered at the opera house by Rev. W. C. Salisbury.

Mrs. Ben Reul returned on Friday evening from the hospital at Rochester, Minn., where she has been for the past few weeks. She is greatly improved in health.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Lutheran church, held their regular meeting on Thursday with Mrs. Nels P. Brunton. There was a good attendance and an interesting time is reported.

Frank Ashby came out from Janesville on Friday and decorated the family lot at the Maple Grove cemetery.

Positive Cinch.
"I don't like to knock," said the Grouch, today, "but whenever I hear that two of my acquaintances, More and Post, are sick I am always sure that it can't possibly be brain fever."

Practical Joke Caused Death.
A wealthy resident of Newburgh, N. Y., died as the result of a prank perpetrated by a frolicsome friend. This friend, holding a lighted cigar near the victim's face, suddenly asked him to turn around, and as this was done the cigar lightly touched the victim's cheek. Both gentlemen enjoyed the merry jest. In a few months, however, a cancerous growth appeared on the spot where the flesh had been burned and, growing rapidly, caused the man's death.

SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED

Scarcely any hair on head. Terrible itching. Also Bothered With Pimples and Blackheads on Face. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Both Troubles.

Greenwood, Ind. — "First my hair began to fall, then my scalp itched and burned when I became warm. I had pimples on my scalp; my hair was falling out. I tried everything until I had scarcely any hair on my head. I couldn't keep the dandruff off at all. My hair was dry, lifeless and I lost the terrible itching sensation. I would pull my hair out and scratch my head any place I happened to be."

"For several years I was bothered with pimples on my face. Some of them were hard and some were full of matter, and many blackheads. I was always picking at them and caused them to be sore. They made my face look so badly I was ashamed to be seen."

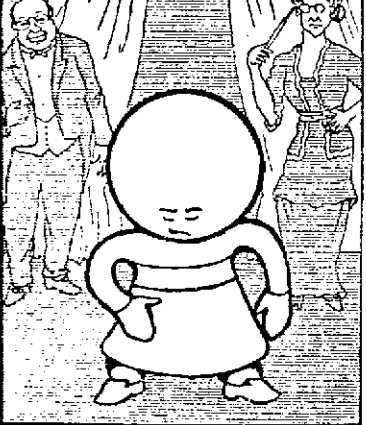

"I tried washing my head with Cuticura Soap, dried without rinsing, then put the Cuticura Ointment on and rubbed it into the scalp. I applied the Cuticura Soap and Ointment the same each week until cured. Three months' use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment has made my face as smooth and clean as can be." (Signed) C. M. Hamilton, Sept. 24, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-c. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

*Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Wife's Privilege.
"Each said that his wife habitually chastised him and that he could stand it no longer." This is not a quotation from a comic opera or a funny paper, but from a report of court proceedings. The report proceeds: "Mrs. Bach proved, however, to the satisfaction of the court that she was frequently justified in administering corporal punishment to her husband, and she was let off with payment of the costs."—The Outlook.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

That the average show has its own troubles and meets with many obstacles, especially in the early part of the season, is evident by the troubles that the Robinson show of Cincinnati has been going through in different towns in its own state. The rains poured down day after day and at times it was impossible for them to show, and in one town at least the performers' trunks in the dressing room were floating around in water more than a foot deep. Many a performer declared that it would be his or her last season with the tented shows. "Me for the hall shows after this," was heard many a time, and then when these troubles are over and the sun shines for several days these resolutions for the most part are forgotten. After the long winter and many times a short bank account the average performer is not only ready but anxious to take the road again.

The Robinson show got into a tight spot early Sunday a. m. with the sun shining and the lot dry. Everything was fine until the Monday matinee performance, when it rained nearly all the afternoon to 5 o'clock. The show started to clear up after dark, but the evening performance. The tent was filled at 8 o'clock and the grand entry had just taken place when one of the hardest winds and heaviest rains came up that had been seen in many a day. It rained so hard and the wind blew so strong that nearly everyone in the tents was on the hippodrome track to keep from getting drenched. The water poured in between the side walls and the big top in buckets. Owing to the confusion the show was not able to finish and concert and all were over at 9:15. The dressing room was a pond of water. I looked up at the show would not get to the lot until daybreak.

The next stand was Ravenna, Ohio, on Tuesday, and on account of getting in so late there was no parade in the afternoon the heavy rain which was still continuing cut short the performance. Water on the inside of the tent stood in pools ten to fifteen inches. The tents were torn down after the afternoon performance and the program for the evening abandoned. In regaining the sidewalk after the afternoon performance spectators waded in water shoes deep. Steve Baker says it is the last season for him with a tent show. Equestrian Director Miller and I guess everyone connected with the show thought the same thing.

On Saturday May 9, this show was billed to play Galien, O. When an attempt was made to drive in on the lot there were several soldiers stationed there. It seems that some carnival company had caused all the carnival lots, even the one that the Robinson show had contracted for. It looked as if there would be no show that day, but on investigation it was learned that the militia had been called out by the mayor and not by the state, so this did not hold good.

It was 9 o'clock before the first wagon was on the lot. Charles Pick, purchasing agent with the show, said he never saw a big top go up so quickly. Everything was in and shape in two hours and the parade went out on time at 11 a. m.

The Robinson show had to pay a county fee of $50, besides city license, at Barbours, O. when it exhibited there Monday, May 11. This law was made some thirty or more years ago, when a great many wagon shows were on the road. The law never having been changed, of course the Robinson show was the victim. The county fee had not been collected for twenty years before from any tent show. The county treasurer and deputy auditor, from Akron, drove to Barbours, ten miles from Akron, Monday afternoon and collected the $50.

Charles McLean, who for many years was identified as superintendent of the canvas, at the Barnum & Bailey and Buffalo Bill shows, is now associated with E. A. McNinch in the grand stand and seating business in the capacity of superintendent of construction. He is located in St. Louis, in charge of erecting 45,000 seats, seven large tents and six smaller ones, for the present and masque to be held on Art Hill, in Forest Park, May 28-31.

A few days ago a letter from Peter Conklin, one of the old-time clowns, appeared in a magazine, telling of his early experiences and how he first started in the business. This letter will prove of interest to many in Janesville, especially the older citizens, for it was in the late '70's that Peter Conklin was the principal clown of the Burr Robinson show, and Mr. Conklin for a time made Janesville his headquarters. In the days of the one ring show the clown was one of the principal features. Mr. Conklin retired some years ago and with his family is living in a comfortable home in Brooklyn, N. Y. His letter says:

"As I was seated in my comfortable home, 1776 West Eleventh street, Brooklyn, N. Y., on the forty-third anniversary of my marriage, with my wife and son, Peter Jr., my daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Fox, and their two sons, and brother George and his wife, it made me feel happy to be surrounded by all that was dear to me. One of the boys asked me to tell them how I started in the circus business, and whether I was always a clown. No, I didn't start in as a clown. I was a trained actor in Cincinnati in the days of the greatest circus towns in the country, and boylike, I was much interested in the circus. So my pals and I used to practice tumbling. We got so that we could tumble as well as the best of them. I was very anxious to get into the circus business and was full of ambition. One day as I was walking by the Western Museum, on Sycamore street, I noticed a card in the window. 'Wanted,' it said. The manager said he wanted a boy to beat the bass drum. He asked me if I had ever beaten a bass drum. I said, 'No, but it wouldn't take me long to learn,' so he gave me a trial and I made good, and I've been following the bass drum ever since. In spring all circuses opened and there was great opposition. There was old John Robinson's circus, Spaulding & Rogers and Johnson & May's. Dan Rice was the clown with Spaulding & Rogers. To outdo other shows he advertised to pass all children in free. W. F. Waller was the clown and jestor with Johnson & May's circus. So Waller, not to be outdone by Dan Rice, advertised to pass in all children free, especially all boys that could tumble. So three of us, Sam Reinhardt, Amer Richardson and I, went to the circus, and I was spokesman. I said to Waller: 'We see by times it was impossible for them to pass in all boys who can tumble.' He asked, 'What can you do?' I started in and turned a row of flip-flops and a somersault, which astonished him. He declared that it would be his lot. He said, 'You are all right; can the others do as well?' And they did just the same. He passed us in, gave us a seat near the ring, and just before the great tumbling act went into the ring he took us into the dressing room and made us take off our shoes and roll up our pants. He then took us back in the ring and introduced us to the audience, and in his announcement he said, 'These are the show people of Cincinnati just what great talent they had. Well, we went into the act, got rounds of applause and made a great hit. He asked our names and said if we stuck to the business we would make our mark. I took his advice and took my brother in with me and we practiced a brother act. And our first engagement was with Major Brown's circus in 1893. I started in as a clown with the circus, where I succeeded. Tom Pastor. Since, I have traveled with all the leading shows, from John Robinson's to Barnum & Bailey's. In 1896 I was engaged to open with Foreman & O'Brien's circus in Philadelphia, to appear in the same ring with Dan Rice and W. F. Waller, two of the greatest clowns of the day. Dan Rice was the great American clown, and Waller was the Queen of England's clown. I had just met Mr. Rice, let since I was a boy in Cincinnati. He was very much surprised when he found out that I was one of the boys he had passed in the circus for tumbling. He remarked, 'Well, now you are a big man and playing clown in the same ring with me, and you have made your mark.' He had me go into the ring with him and he told me with tears in his eyes, told the story to the audience. The clowns were the feature of the show, and they both did their best, told their very best jokes and did a small task to get into the ring after these famous artists, and especially as it was my first appearance in Philadelphia. I played for Charlie Fish's act, and he noticed I had to work up something new. I went into the ring with a hurrah and a round of flip-flops and a high buck somersault, which so differed from the other jesters that I caught on big. Mr. Fish was a first-class trick rider, but very uncertain. On this night he wanted to do something extra, to turn a somersault on one foot over an object, a very difficult feat. He tried and failed and made excuses, saying the horse was running bad, and the ring was bad, etc., until the audience began to get tired. But Mr. Fish was determined to do that feat, so I helped him out. I said to the ring master, 'Top King, just where the fault lies. It isn't the horse's fault; it isn't the rider's fault, nor the fault of the ring.' So the ring master said, 'If you know where the fault is, please tell us. I feel him in front of the orchestra and pointed to the man with the big horn and said, 'Every time he blows in that he blows Mr. Fish off his horse.' Then the ring master said to the man with the big horn, 'Please don't blow into that horn until Mr. Fish has accomplished this great feat.' Then Fish astonished everyone by doing the trick, while the audience applauded. This little raise of mine made me a great favorite in Philadelphia. Several years ago I was walking on Broadway and met a gentleman who greeted me cordially. I didn't remember him until he said, 'Why am I the man you said knew Charlie Fish off the horse?' I traveled with Dan Rice's show in 1879. We played clown for the same act, which was the feature of the show. Dan Rice would go into the ring first and tell several jokes and his troubles. He would say, 'I've been reported dead, but I still live. They tried to rob me of my name, but they couldn't do it, because it's blown in the bottle. I've been married three times and I've got sense enough to sleep alone.' He would sing a verse of a song. Then he would say, 'What is the use of me trying to sing? I'll introduce my young friend, Peter Conklin, who could enter the ring and finish the act.'

"In our travels we struck many temperance towns. Dan was always used to taking his 'night cap' before he retired. Once we struck a town where there was no liquor to be had. So Dan said: 'Peter I must have my night cap; you try to find someone that has some liquor.' After inquiring I found the only man who had liquor in the whole town. He was a banker. So I told Dan. He wondered how we could get to him. I suggested that the best way would be to serenade him. Dan said, 'That's good.'

I got the band and after the show we went to the banker's house and serenaded him. Charlie Devere, the ballet singer, sang 'Shall Old Acquaintance Be Forgotten.' The banker raised his window, wondering what I was all about. Dan said, 'I've brought my boys over to give you a little serenade.' The banker came down and invited in. Dan soon told him that he had understood that the banker was the only man in town who had any liquor, and he (Dan) had aways been used to having his night cap before retiring.

The banker said, 'Yes, I have always been in the habit of keeping a little liquor in the house in case of sickness.' Dan claimed not to be feeling well, so the banker brought in the demijohn, put it on the table and whiskey; one drink will make you feel as if you owned the country. The demijohn was one with willow around it.

"I said to Charlie Devere, 'Sing that beautiful ballad, "Under the Willow She Is Sleeping." We all had a drink and Dan sang "Mr. Jolly Jack Rover." We had a little more "real estate," and I sang "Little Brown Jug." We had a little more "tea," then we finished up by singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." We bid the banker goodnight and Dan went home happy with his night cap."

Observe Memorial Day at Milton Friday
Milton, May 30.—Memorial Day was observed here yesterday. The procession, led by the Firemen's Band, which was made up of the G. A. R., W. R. C., Sons of Veterans, Boy Scouts, college faculty and students and pupils of the public schools, marched from the park to the cemetery where the usual decoration and other exercises were held. The post was assisted by President W. C. Dand, Rev. W. A. Leighton, the Sons of Veterans' Quartette, Messrs. Campbell, Holston, Thomas and Keefe, and P. H. Stringer read Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Henry Sprague of Portage visited his old home town Friday.

Almost Too Much.
A wealthy Jew on his vacation was fond of horseback riding. He had been hiring a fine horse, and decided to buy it, if he could make arrangements to have it kept on the hotel grounds. He spoke to the manager, who smiled and named a ridiculously high rate. "Excuse me," said the son of Abraham, with a twinkle in his eyes, "but I don't mind if you sting me for my board—I'm a Jew—but the horse ain't a Jew, too, is it?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

APPLY SULPHUR LIKE A COLD CREAM WHEN SKIN BREAKS OUT SAYS SULPHUR WILL END ITCHING ECZEMA

In the treatment of the various forms of disfiguring, itching and burning Eczema such as Acne, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, there is nothing known that can take the place of bold-sulphur cream.

It effects such prompt relief, even in the aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of outcuring eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties. Bold-sulphur is not only parasiticidal, but antipruritic and antiseptic, therefore invaluable in overcoming irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance it instantly stops the agonizing itching; subdues the irritation and heals the inflamed, raw skin right up and it is often years later before any Eczema eruption again appears.

Those troubled should obtain from any good pharmacist an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it directly upon the abrasion like an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome. This is published for Walter Luther Dodge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

"SWANEE RIVER" IN SONG BOOK

The popularity of "Swanee River" dates back to the time when Christine Nilsson, the fair haired Swedish, daughter of a farmer near Jexio, Sweden, surprised all who heard her with the sweetness and compass of her voice as she sang Foster's plaintive melody. She was an accomplished player on the flute and violin and she made her debut at the early age of 17 at Stockholm. Like many of the famous prima donnas, the opera chosen for her appearance was "La Traviata." She made a concert tour of the United States and sang many years in Italian opera. At her farewell concert given in London her voice was exquisite in its purity and sweetness and evenness of tone, having a compass of three octaves, an exceptional range. In America she will be known and long remembered for her singing of "Swanee River" in the height of her success and operatic triumphs. She was the acknowledged incomparable artist of her times. This beautiful song, and many others sang by Nilsson, are to be found in "Heart Songs" now offered by this paper to its readers, who will find the terms given in the coupon published on another page of today's issue.

If You Are Artistic.
If you have artistic tendencies which are crying for expression there is no better way to express yourself than in your personal appearance and the arrangement and decoration of your home. Make yourself and your home works of art. You will find this much more worth while than wasting a large amount of artistic vitality on second-rate china painting, sketching, modeling and the like.

Check the Measurements

Leg room, depth and width of seats—with those of any car selling from $1000 up to $1400—you'll find this is a "big" car in inches as well as "immense" in efficiency. Note up-to-date streamline body design, left hand steer, center control and other features of the highest priced cars.

Maxwell

The Car that is Rapidly Settling

IT IS predicted by shrewd judges that the Maxwell "25" $750 car made by the Maxwell Motor Company, Detroit, Mich., will within a year be the fastest selling automobile in the world.

And this isn't such an extraordinary prediction when you consider the many very remarkably good points of the Maxwell "25," and the present phenomenal demand.

A prominent writer who has intelligently studied the subject said recently that the time is coming when most families in the United States will own an automobile.

In many places Maxwell "25s" are used not only for pleasure purposes, but for business reasons as well, thus rendering a highly efficient double service.

The Maxwell "25" Car is unique. It occupies a distinctive position.

It is in a class by itself. It hasn't a real competitor because it gives what other cars do not give. It possesses more advantages that benefit you, price considered, of any car.

The Maxwell "25" Car has all the fine points of the highest priced cars and none of their weaknesses.

It is truly a marvel of engineering genius. It is thoroughly trustworthy in every detail of construction and equipment. It is made from the best materials that brains can devise for a money buy.

The Maxwell "25" is a light, practically indestructible car of extraordinary capacity, power and performance. It symbolizes speed, power and economy.

The cost of oil, gasoline and tire maintenance is so small as to be positively amazing. This has been proved repeatedly.

The Maxwell "25" is more than just merely a car. It is a superbly constructed, roomy 5-passenger automobile. It is a real full grown car, a beautiful, smooth, swift, eminently satisfactory streamline automobile.

These Detailed Specifications Prove Positively Ho

The Maxwell "25" has absolutely every essential quality, and absolutely every necessary feature found in the very highest priced cars.

In actual economy of operation, in real ability to keep out of the repair shop, it not only equals but surpasses most cars which cost five times its price.

The Maxwell "25" weighs 1685 pounds. A wonderful "tire economy car." Has 30" x 3 1/2" tires, front and rear, permitting rear tires to be shifted to front wheels to give extra long service.

The motor is cast en bloc; 3 3/8" bore; 4 1/2" stroke; adjustable valves completely inclosed. Extra large crank shaft; bearings of bronze with babbitt lining.

Motor water cooled, will not overheat.

More Power for Its Weight Than All Higher Priced Cars

The Maxwell "25" has a real "25" horsepower motor—which develops more power in proportion to the weight of the car than the engines of most $5,000 automobiles.

The Maxwell "25" can pass most any car on hills "in high." It is a phenomenal hill climber.

Costly High Tension Magneto—Like Highest Priced Cars

The Maxwell "25" has a Simms high-tension magneto, which delivers the spark direct to the spark plugs in correct time. It means no coils—no make-shift master vibrators—no mechanism that requires frequent delicate adjustments. The motor works right, and stays right.

Transmission—4 Speed Selective Sliding Gear, Center Control

The Maxwell "25" has a 4-speed selective type transmission, 3 forward and 1 reverse. The main shaft has Hyatt Roller Bearings at front end—bronze bushing babbitt lined at rear. A reliable cone clutch lined with motobestos. It takes hold without sudden gripping, and without undue noise.

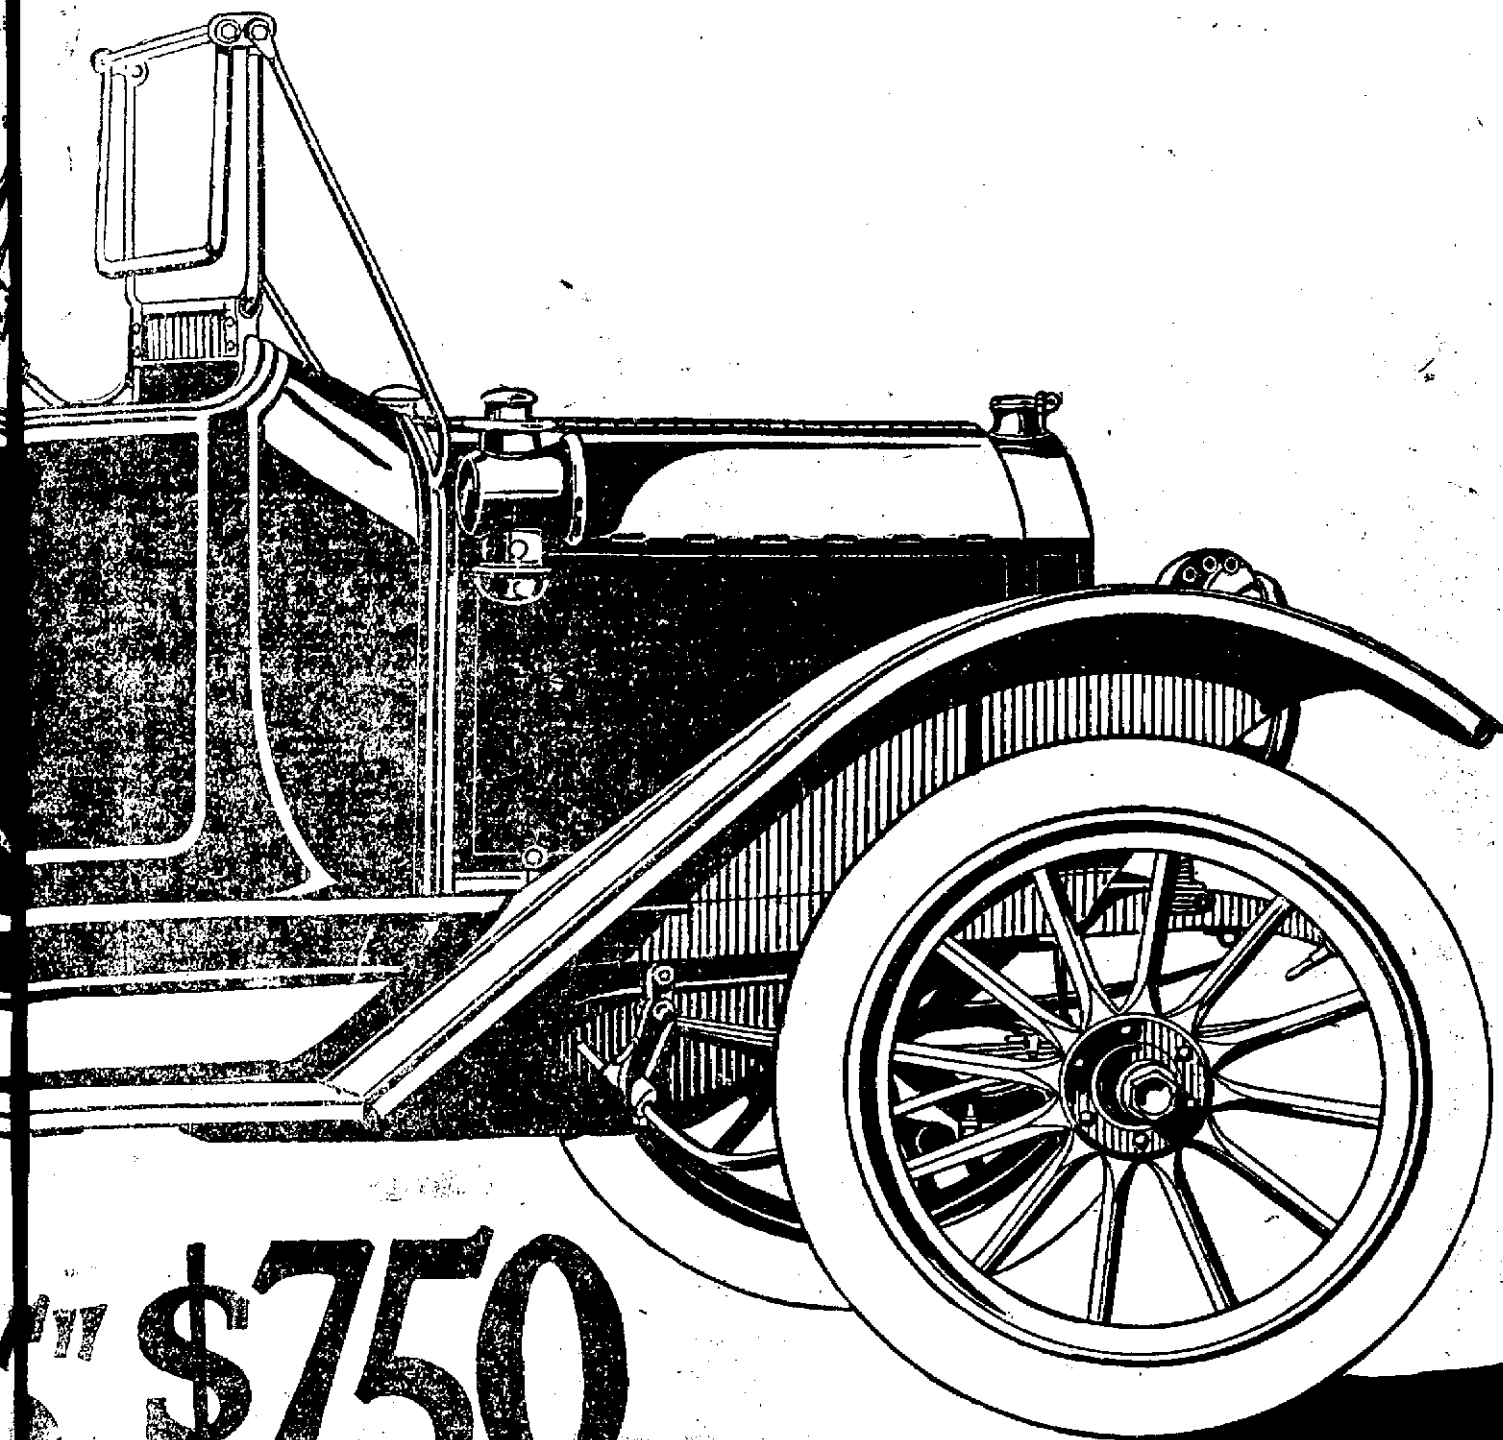

Control—Brakes of Extra Strength

The Maxwell "25" has left-side, 16" steering wheel. There is plenty of room for a big man to drive without being cramped. The brake and throttle control rods are inclosed in steering column.

Make Your Ad. Explicit

A lone woman, owner of an eight-room, modern home, tired of living alone. She would do as others did. She would also be progressive—she would advertise. She wrote out an ad. It was short and to the point. She would not invest much in the publicity game. Her ad ran like this: "For Rent—Three rooms at 435 Farley Ave. Call afternoons."

It cost a quarter to run her ad for three days. She sat at home and waited. She sat at home and waited. She sat at home and waited.

This reiteration tells you she waited patiently for the results of her ad. They came not. In the same paper were other ads along the same lines. There is competition in every walk of life. Would the game be worth the playing if there was not?

A friend of hers called. To her she related her trial at the advertising game and it's unsuccessful results. The friend listened, then sat down and wrote her an ad that brought her more roomers than she could accommodate. There is a right and a wrong way to ad writing as well as to other things. The second ad ran like this: "Wanted—By a woman living alone. Roomers, preferably women. Large light, airy rooms, heat, light, bath. Good residential section, reasonable rates. References given and required. 435 Farley Ave., phone Green 66."

FINANCIAL.
FINANCIAL—We offer for sale real estate farm mortgages that we have taken within the last few months. These mortgages run from 2% to 4% of the value of the lands and are in localities where we are well acquainted with lands and their value.

Our business for the last fifteen years has been to loan money. During that time we have been compelled to learn a few things about securities. We would not now after these years of experience be loaning our own money on these same securities had anything better.

Based on the fact we have yet to sell the first mortgage on which there is a loss or even inconvenience to a customer we recommend these as good. Gold Stacker Loan & Credit Co., W. O. Newhouse, Vice Pres. 2-5-22-11.

Our Great Second Floor

We make homes cozy because it is our business to do so. There exists in the heart of every home-loving woman the desire to have everything properly harmonized and blended thus making the home comfortable and attractive. We know of no other store which so fully comprehends the requirements for artistic decoration of homes of every class or which provides so lavishly the needed materials.

THE BUILDERS EXCHANGE

Here will be found exhibits of the different things that the home builder will find necessary, grouped under one roof, making for easy selection.

Electric Light Makes Happy Homes

Your home will become immeasurably more pleasant to live in, once it is equipped for Electric Light. This pure air illuminant makes a home more healthful, especially for children. From better health come better spirits — more happiness. Home furnishings and decorations stay bright and clean. Because there is less cleaning to do work is lessened.

At the present low cost of Electric Lights any home can not afford to be without them.

We will be glad to call and give you an estimate what it will cost to have your home wired.

A SIMPLE CHARACTER HOME—By John Henry Newson

"Home of Character" No. 153

This design is built in wide siding without out horizontal band or belt courses. This effect, together with the long roof sloping over the porch, is one that contributes largely to the simple dignity of the exterior.

The floor plans call for a basement under the entire house and the living room on the first floor extending across the front, as well as the porch. The dining room is at the rear, with a pantry connecting with the kitchen. The second floor is reached both from the kitchen and living room, and a small, compact hall on the second floor gives access to four bedrooms, as also a stairway to the attic, which is finished in one large room. Hardwood floors are used throughout, with hardwood trim, stained and waxed, on the first floor, and birch or popular enameled, with birch doors, on the second floor. Attic and kitchen are finished in yellow pine.

A square house of this type is inexpensive to build, considering the amount of floor space, which is further increased by extending the bedrooms over the porch.

In most localities this design 28x26 feet could be built for $3000 to $3500, depending on kind and quality of material used, type of heating plant installed, and grade of plumbing fixtures. All of these items enter into cost as well as local conditions.

If you are thinking of building let The Gazette Homes of Character Department help you through advice from John Henry Newson. Address your inquiries to him "Homes of Character" Dept., The Gazette. Give the numbers of houses concerning which you make inquiry.

Make It Easier For the Housewife

House cleaning is so back-breaking that the housewife should not be obliged to do it oftener than in the spring and fall.

But if you postpone those repairs much longer—shingling, new floors, new windows, new porch, or what not—she'll have to do her spring house cleaning all over again—in the hot exhausting weather, too.

It costs no more to do it now and she will appreciate your thoughtfulness if you save her this extra work.

Fix Up Before the Clean-Up

Then the house cleaning can be done once for all. The house will look so much better, too, with the repairing done.

Let us know what the needed repairs are. You can readily find in our large complete stock just the repair materials you want. We will furnish you only the right quality of the right kind for the purpose for which you want it—and only as much as you need and you'll be pleased with our prices.
